Tutoring Experience

I have spent the past five years tutoring students in IB and A-Level Biology, working with diverse learners from across the globe. My focus is on simplifying complex topics and helping students master their curriculum, ensuring they are well-prepared for exams and further studies.

In addition to school-level teaching, I have supported students preparing for their university applications by guiding them through biology-related coursework and exam preparation. My experience with international curriculums has allowed my students to achieve excellent results and pursue higher education in prestigious universities.
